

YOGOTE-ENGLISH DICTIONARY

Xabier Prado

This is a complement of the English-YoGoTe Dictionary. Both books can be downloaded freely from the following Internet site:

www.yogote.net

On the same website can you find all the information about the use of the universal signs in the schoolproject YoGoTe for an international communication. The project is graded in levels, and this dictionary is best suited for the following levels:

THIRD LEVEL: Introduction to foreign languages with texts in their original versions.

With its help you will be able to decipher the meaning of texts that are written in other languages, provided that they are accompanied by universal signs.

That makes it possible to use texts (songs, poems, sentences or simply words) in other languages without the need to translate them.

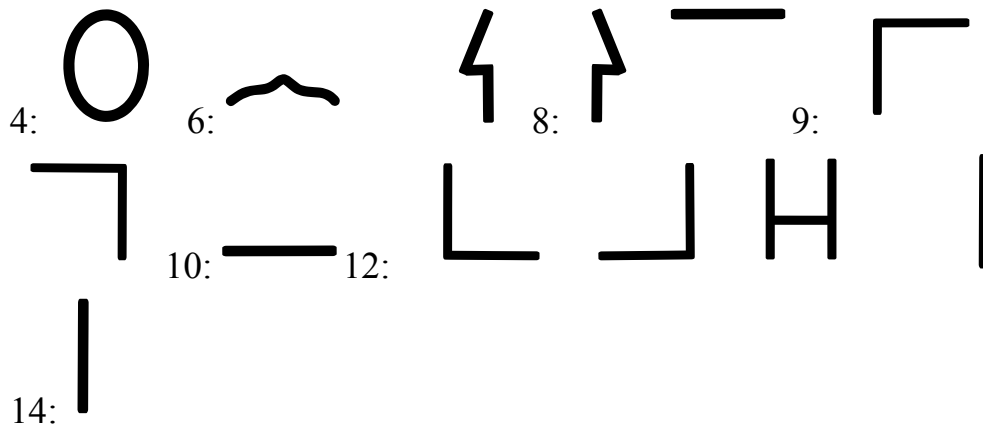

You can find examples of texts in many different languages at the same web.

FOURTH LEVEL: Exchanging texts with people from all over the world.

In the web there will be a net of people from different countries, who explain in which activities they are willing to take part.

Each one will offer to the whole world texts (made by themselves or by others) representing the own culture, values, ideas, etc, and he/she can receive the texts that they need to know directly the different realities existing in the world.

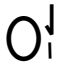

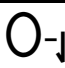

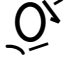

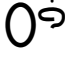

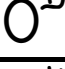

The signs are ordered according to their lines. If the sign has a line showing the part of the body –those lines are somehow thicker than the others – then you can find it at the pages whose numbers are shown below:

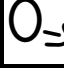

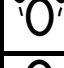

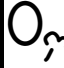

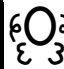

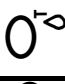

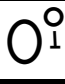

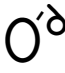

If the sign has none of those lines, then you must look after it according to the hand shape. These shapes are also ordered below. If the sign has two different hand shapes, the one used to classify is the shape of the hand that has more movement –usually the right hand-. If you don't see this clearly enough, then try to find the sign either on one of the shapes or on the other one.

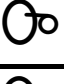

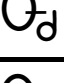

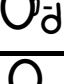

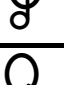

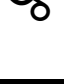

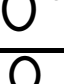

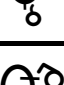

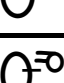

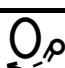

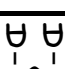

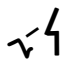

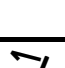

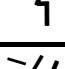

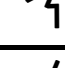

Every sign has several words with different meanings associated with it. You must try to find out the meaning that fits better to the context. You will find in the dictionary some words written in black letters, they correspond to the original meanings of the universal signs. Other words are written in normal letters, and they correspond to additional meanings that are only to be used at schools..
